Eligibility criteria

- The mobility must take place within the framework of a structured research partnership or one in the process of being structured.
- The PhD student must be hosted in an academic research structure (excluding companies).
- The grant must concern mobility projects lasting from 2 to 6 months, which may be divided into several stays of a significant duration (1 month each minimum) as part of an overall project.
- The candidate must be enrolled in a doctoral program at the Université de Lorraine and travel during the 36 months following the first registration in full-time PhD or the 72 months following the first registration in part-time PhD.
- In the case of a co-mentorship (cotutelle) agreement, the PhD student must carry out his/her research stay in a country different from the countries involved in the co-mentorship agreement.
- The thesis supervisor, the head of research unit and the head of doctoral school, as well as the PhD student's employer if different from the Université de Lorraine, must be in favour of this mobility.

Funding modalities

The international mobility grant includes :

- Financial support for a round trip to the host structure abroad for a maximum amount of €1,500, based on the economic rate. If the stay is split, only one round trip will be covered.
- A travel allowance package which may not exceed €5,000. This package covers part of the living expenses in the host country. It includes daily allowances (meals and accommodation) and ancillary expenses (public transport, visas, etc.).

Examples :

For a 2-month project (€)	Australia	China	Italy	Morocco
DrEAM package	2,678	2,678	2,728	1,637

Required documents

- Complete application form with signed letter of commitment
- Previsional schedule of the research activities and tasks planned during the stay
- Detailed CV of maximum 2 pages including produced publications and posters
- Letter of acceptance from the host institution stating the dates of stay
- Quotations for accommodation and transport expenses to the host institution
